

ULTRASONOGRAPHIC IMAGING OF PELVIC FLOOR DISORDERS

XIII° COURSE: November 18th – 20th, 2009

I Department of Surgery, Regional Hospital, Treviso - ITALIA

Ultrasonographic imaging is gaining a key role in the understanding of pelvic floor disorders. Three-dimensional endoanal and endorectal ultrasonography (3D-EUS), three-dimensional endovaginal ultrasonography (3D-TVUS) and dynamic transperineal ultrasonography (DTPUS) are nowadays increasingly used in clinical practice for patients suffering from pelvic floor dysfunctions (fecal and urinary incontinence, pelvic organs prolapsed, obstructed defecation) and for patients with anal and rectal pathologies, either benign (anorectal sepsis) or malignant (anorectal tumors). These non-invasive techniques not only provide a superior depiction of the pelvic anatomy but also yield unique dynamic information. The new tridimensional technology is on the front line in the diagnostic and therapeutic work-up and is superior to 2D-US, due to the elaboration of images, achieving better accuracy in the diagnosis of complex diseases. This course is organised for all physicians who are involved or interested in pelvic floor disorders: general surgeons, gastroenterologists, radiologists, urologists and gynaecologists. Theoretical session presents the main guidelines and indications for the use of the different ultrasonographic techniques in clinical practice, demonstrating the endosonographic appearance of normal anatomy and common pathologic conditions of the pelvic floor. Practical session is organised in order to provide the participants with hands-on experience in the basic use of ultrasonography and is designed to closely discuss specific details of the techniques. Finally the course includes a session of hands-on training on PC-3D view workstation to let each participants to review, manipulate, analyze and discuss several clinical cases under experts' advice and a live surgery session directly from the operating room to get a better understanding of the pathologic conditions evaluated by ultrasound. A number of highly regarded specialists in this clinical and research area have been selected to provide their experiences on the different topics of the course.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

To cover a broad spectrum of ultrasonographic techniques in pelvic floor disorders and to provide the participants with didactic education in the indications for the use of ultrasonographic imaging of pelvic floor disorders in clinical practice

To demonstrate the endosonographic appearance of normal anatomy and common benign and malignant pathologic conditions of the pelvic organs

To provide hands-on sessions to highlight technicalities of ultrasound through the broadcasting of live procedures, to allow real-time discussion between the examiners and the trainees and to improve skills of participants in ultrasound through practice on live or laptop computers under experts' tutorials

PARTICIPANTS

Ultrasonographic course will be limited to 20 participants
